SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Jan. 14.

MEETING OF THE NATIONAL UNION COMMITTEE.

The National Union Committee, appointed at the Chicago Convention, has been summoned to meet in this city, on Monday, Feb. 22.

LONGSTREET NOT REINFORCED.

The statement telegraphed from Chattanooga that Longstreet had been reinforced by troops from Lee's command is untrue.

THE REBEL ARMY OF VIRGINIA.

A letter received here this morning from a prominent General officer in the Army of the Potomac, says that Lee's army instead of being depleted is being recruited by conscripts. The writer says the rebels are using strenuous efforts to organize and mount their cavalry for offensive operations in the Spring, and are unsparing in the service all the good forces in the State. The rebel army, which is encamped between Orange Court-house and Gordonsville, is well provided with provisions, but is suffering for shoes, clothing, and blankets.

DESTRUCTION BY CHARLESTON.

Private information received here from rebel sources is to the effect that Charleston is being gradually destroyed by the fire of our batteries. On the 23d of Dec. two blocks of buildings on Kingstreet, in the heart of that city, belonging to the estate of the late Senator Rhett, were destroyed by fire kindled by GILLMORE'S shells. Several large warehouses occupied by the Confederate Government and filled with army supplies were also destroyed about the same time. The city is almost deserted by all except the military. The poorer classes have erected temporary encampments in the suburbs out of the range of the fire. Great destitution prevails among them. The telegraph operators in Charleston have been notified not to telegraph for publication the effect of our fire upon the city. The several newspaper offices have removed their presses and furniture out of range of our guns.

PRIZE MONEY TO THE MISSISSIPPI FLOTILLA.

A bill will soon be reported by the House Naval Committee providing for the distribution of prize money to the officers and crews of the Mississippi flotilla.

THE STRATEGIC OF COL. WILSON.

Col. JOHN A. WILSON, Tenth United States colored troops, having authorized and permitted the impressment of negro recruits into his regiment, thereby hindering recruiting, and spreading distrust and alarm among the negroes, by order of Gen. BUTLER is dismissed the service of the United States, subject to the approval of the President.

THE CHARGES AGAINST GEN. SHEPLEY.

The Secretary of War has written to Brig.-Gen. SHEPLEY, now Military Governor of New-Orleans, assuring him that no charges have been filed against him at the War Department, accusing him with having received at the sending of medicines to the rebels, as was improperly announced a few weeks since. The rumor originated with one of the aspirants to Congressional honors from Louisiana.

COMMODORE WILKES' LETTER.

A Court of Inquiry has been ordered by the Secretary of the Navy to inquire into the manner in which the publication of Commodore WILKES' letter to Secretary WELLES was effected. The letter first appeared in the Times.

GENERAL OFFICERS WITHOUT COMMANDS.

Secretary STANTON yesterday sent to the Senate the names of Major-Generals and Brigadier-Generals without commands equal to a brigade; the number of their Staffs, their pay, commutations and rations, and the Major and Brigadier-Generals in command of Departments and districts, together with his opinion if they were needed. The list formidable to taxpayers, and odious to soldiers who live in the front, is as follows. The pay is monthly pay:

Recapitulation.—Number of Major-Generals without command equal to a brigade, 20; number of Brigadier-Generals, 47; number of staff officers serving on the staffs of General officers without a command equal to a brigade—Colonels, 3; Lieutenant-Colonels, 3; Majors, 7; Captains, 17; Lieutenants, 9. Total monthly pay of Major-Generals, $6,340; total monthly pay of Brigadier-Generals, $13,671 50; total monthly pay of Colonels, $490; total monthly pay of Lieutenant-Colonels, $337; total monthly pay of Majors, $1,094; total monthly pay of Captains, $2,178; total monthly pay of Lieutenants, $1,070 50. Total, $25,181 50. Grand total, $27,192.

Number of Major and Brigadier-Generals Commanding Departments, Districts and Posts.—Departments—Major-Generals, 4; Brigadier-Generals, 4. Districts—Major-Generals, 2; Brigadier-Generals, 7. Posts—Major-Generals, 1; Brigadier-Generals, 14. Total—Major-Generals, 7; Brigadier-Generals, 25.

This list does not include Maj.-Gens. CURTIS, BANKS, STEEL and others in Pennsylvania and elsewhere in command of camps and on apparently nominal duties. Their staffs will swell the list and exhibit an immense expenditure of public money, which the Senate will probable decide shall be in future saved to the National Exchequer, or appropriated to increase the well-earned pay of fighting men.

In regard to the question whether it is necessary to assign officers of such high rank, with their numerous staff, to such duties, Secretary STANTON says: First—The Department commands, as that of the East, the Southwest, the Ohio, &c., involve great responsibility, and require the authority of a general officer in act upon questions of military jurisdiction. Second—The Generals assigned to temporary duties, such as commanders of draft rendezvous, Courts-martial, etc., are generally disabled by wounds or sickness incurred in the field. Their Staff officers in such cases are generally employed at the depots as Commissaries, Quartermasters, Adjutants, &c., and supersede the necessity of detailing others.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Jan. 14.

THE SOLDIER BILL APPROVED.

The President has approved and signed the act extending the bounties to the 1st of March.

DESERTIONS TO THE ENEMY.

Assistant Adjt.-Gen. TOWNSEND has made a report containing a list of all known desertions of non-commissioned officers and privates from the regular army to the rebels. The number is only 32, of which 20 are from the Eighth Infantry. He has also supplied a list of the officers of the regular army who have left the service by resignation or dismission or engage in the rebellion. The total is 372, of whom 184 have entered the rebel service, 68 are presumed to have done so, and the remaining 120 resigned to be commissioned in the face of the enemy, and one made an attempt to desert to the rebels; 343 have resigned, 26 were dismissed, and nine dropped.

CONTINGENT EXPENSES OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

Among the contingent expenses of the War Department for 1863, as exhibited by the report, is an item of $1,000, paid the widow of the pilot Pinkney, of the steamer Resort, as a reward for the relief of the beleaguered garrison at Washington, N. C. The entire sum of contingent expenses is $171,000.

THE SUCCESSOR OF JUDGE SWAYNE.

Ex-Congressman ALBERT G. WRIGHT, of Indiana, was to-day nominated by the President of the Senate as Judge of the District Court for that State, to supply the vacancy by the death of Judge SWAYNE.

RESTITUTIONS TO THE TREASURY.

Four nonchalant-stricken persons have severally made restitutions to the Government. The sums in the aggregate amount to only $20, which have been deposited in the United States Treasury.

PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Jan. 14.

BOUNDARY LINES.

Mr. RAMSEY, of Minnesota, (Union,) presented a petition from citizens of Wisconsin and Minnesota, asking for an extension of their boundary line. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

A SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) moved to take up his bill to appoint a Second Assistant Secretary of War.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Maryland, (Union,) moved to limit the office to one year from the passage of the act.

The motion was adopted, and Mr. WILSON'S bill was passed.

ARMY OFFICERS WHO HAVE JOINED THE REBELLION.

A communication was here received from the Secretary of War, giving the grade and rank of officers of our service who have entered the service of the rebellion.

THE RULES.

Mr. FOOTE, of Vermont, (Union,) offered a bill to amend the joint rules in reference to disagreements in the two Houses.

TAX ON NATIVE WINES.

Mr. MCDOUGALL, of California, (Dem.,) offered the joint resolutions of the California Legislature in relation to a tax on native wines. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

THE INDIAN SUPERINTENDENCY.

Mr. WILKINSON, of Minnesota, (Union) introduced a bill to extend the Northern Indian Superintendency so that it may include the Territory of Dacotah. Referred to the Committee on Territories.

THE ENROLLMENT BILL.

The Senate then took up the Enrollment Bill.

Mr. WILSON'S amendment which proposed that any person drafted may pay to the Secretary of War three hundred dollars for the procurement of substitutes, and such person so paying, shall be exempt until such time as he again shall be liable to draft by reason of the exhaustion of the enrollment under which the draft was made, was taken up.

Mr. HOWARD, of Wisconsin, (Union) opposed the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. BROWN, of Missouri, (Union) thought the whole issue of the amendment was to make the enrollment a bill of revenue. It is not a constitutional way of raising money. It provides also for raising men by chance, rather than by the means authorized by the Constitution. Out of the number enrolled in the first draft, only eleven thousand men have gone into the service. The bill which had failed to obtain its object was defective. It was a bill which had caused men to shrink back and give their money instead of their services. It was a blow at the very principle which recruits our armies. Let us say to the people that the crisis is such as demands the personal services of every man, and we appeal to the noblest sentiments of the human heart, and the appeal will not be in vain. Instead of that, you come forward in this amendment to the Committee's bill and say, "it matters not whether you volunteer or not; give us your three hundred dollars." Are you not justify by your own actions, the citizens of this Republic in staying home and giving the Government their money? He would be compelled to vote against the measure, as he wanted a conscription that would call for the personal services of the citizens. If we want a revenue measure, let us present it as such.

Mr. CONNESS, of California, (Union,) hoped that the Senate would adhere to his amendment and let a decisive vote be taken on the amendments of the Military Committee to strike out the commutation clause. The question was now in a complex form.

Messrs. HOWE and others concurred in this.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Union,) was opposed to the Committee's amendment, though he was instructed to report it. His amendment to subject the person drafted to another draft after the first enrollment was exhausted was to meet the wishes of the Senator from Ohio (Mr. SHERMAN.) At the suggestion of the Senator, he would withdraw his amendment and let a vote be taken on the Committee's amendment, striking out the commutation.

The amendment was rejected—Ayes, 20; Nays, 11.

Mr. SHERMAN'S amendment providing that a drafted person furnishing a substitute or a commutation of three hundred dollars should stand free in either case, be liable to another draft, on the exhaustion of the present enrollment, came up in order.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Union,) would not give money a greater force than the procurance of a substitute, and when he considered the present inflation of the market of labor and money, the maximum of five hundred dollars, which could be lowered at the discretion of the Secretary of War, was not too much. The standard of two years ago was not the standard now. We should not consider popular clamor on this subject, but considering it calmly, act without fear or favor.

Mr. ANTHONY, of Rhode Island, (Union,) thought that exemptions under the amendment should not exceed the term for which persons have been drafted.

Mr. HARRIS, of New-York, (Union,) moved to strike out the words five hundred dollars, and insert four hundred. Carried. Ayes, 21; nays, 7.

Mr. HOWE proposed an amendment instituting a general fund from the money procured to be paid to drafted persons annually.

On motion of Mr. HOWARD, of Michigan, (Union,) the amendment of Mr. SHERMAN, as amended by Mr. HARRIS, was not agreed to as far as it relates to the commutation clause. Ayes, 23; nays, 18.

This leaves the $300 clause as it is at present law.

Various amendments and modifications were made to the amendment of Mr. WILSON, exempting clergymen and persons who were conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, and allowing them when drafted to serve in hospitals or have commutation.

A long debate ensued on this clause.

Mr. CONNESS was opposed to the amendment, though he had many constituents of this class. The exemptions under this clause would be more numerous than Senators took occasion to think. The Unitarians might claim exemption, because the immortal SEWARD had written the profoundest essay ever written illustrating the horrors of war. His regard for the Quakers was equal to that of any other Senator, but in this war he would take issue with Senators upon the question of exempting them. If they refuse to pay commutation money, it is a Quaker war. They have claimed that Slavery was the curse of the earth, a barbarous institution in the world; and this aggression against the institution has been the object of their fostering care and direction for two hundred years.

Mr. SAULSBURY, of Delaware, (Dem.), asked if he understood the Senator to say that this is a war for the abolition of Slavery.

Mr. CONNESS knew the Senator from Delaware would be brought into this debate. He would find out what his opinions were at another and more appropriate time, on the subject. But as the Senator was Pro-Slavery he desired him to understand that he was Anti-Slavery. He asserted that this was a Quaker's war; a war of moral force against the institution of Slavery. The South undertook this war to rear up a negro empire, upon the proposition that Slavery was right and essential to the existence of society. A part of their proposition was to tear down our Government and build up their slave-breeding aristocracy on its ruins. We accept their doctrine, and say they shall neither build on their edifice, or tear down this Government of freedom established by our forefathers. A citizen, whether Jew or Gentile, Quaker or Catholic, be he what he may, cannot perform a higher duty than to go to the field and fight his country's battles for the preservation of human liberty. There is a means proposed for exemption. He was opposed to the exemption for conscience sake. He believed the safest and truest way to Heaven was to strike a rebel, wherever you can reach him. [Applause.]

The amendments, exempting clergymen and non-combatants, were passed.

The Senate considered and passed several minor amendments to the bill.

At 4½ o'clock the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Jan. 14.

THE CONFISCATION ACT.

The House resumed the consideration of the joint resolution reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, to amend the joint resolution of July 17, 1862, for the suppression of the rebellion, the confiscation of rebel property, &c., providing that there shall be no punishment or proceedings under that act working forfeiture of the estate of the offender except during his life; this amendment being intended to limit the operation so as to make it conform to the third section of the third article of the Constitution, and so that the only meaning that shall be required in the proclamation of the President of July 25, 1862, which proclamation so made is held sufficient in cases now pending or which may hereafter arise.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.) said the confiscation system had been an utter failure, and because it had failed, they were to have various schemes from time to time with a view to stimulate the rebellion and destroy what little Union feeling there was left in the South. Confiscation could not be made effective under the Constitution; for all that could be obtained under the Constitution would be the life estate of the offender, and hence he did not know but that from private grinch or anti-Christian motives, a direction was sought to be made between sections, or there was some bad reason, otherwise there would not be so much urgency on the part of the gentlemen on the other side of the House for the passage of this measure of revenge. The guilty had already been reached; and now the innocent wives and children unborn, were to be affected by the legislation proposed. He argued the constitutional question, contending that the Constitution and all the commentators were against that forfeiture of estate should be limited only to the lifetime of the offender.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) inquired whether if the sentence of death could be pronounced on traitors, Congress could not prescribe another punishment, viz., the forfeiture of estates.

Mr. COX replied that he referred the gentleman to President LINCOLN'S writings, which regarded forfeiture entire as unconstitutional. (Laughter.) He invited gentlemen on the Republican side of the House, amid cries of "Oh! Oh!"

Mr. COX—I regard the man as a traitor and a Secessionist who does not stand by the Administration on that point. (Laughter.)

Mr. STEVENS—I don't understand the gentleman as giving his own opinion, but that of President Lincoln.

Mr. COX replied that he had been giving Judge SPRAGUE'S, as well as President LINCOLN'S. But the gentlemen on the other side would overrule the latter. He was for adhering to the Constitution, and punishing treason under it. His opposition to the Administration was based only on its disregard of instructions of the Constitution.

Mr. OLIN, of Indiana, (Union,) asked whether the gentleman would punish traitors.

Mr. COX replied that he would punish them according to the Constitution, and in all the modes pointed out.

Mr. OLIN asked whether the gentleman would inflict the death penalty.

Mr. COX replied that he had continued to vote men and money to put down the rebellion. He in turn would ask whether the gentleman would punish the innocent for the guilt of their parents?

Mr. OLIN replied that he would not.

Mr. COX—Then you are against the bill.

Mr. OLIN said he was for punishing the guilty.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) was very sorry that this debate had taken a partisan turn. Persons were punished in the Civil and Criminal Courts by taking away their property. Treasure was the children of the guilty; and did the gentleman propose to make an exception for the crime of treason so that the children of traitors might enjoy what was denied to the children of thieves and felons?

Mr. COX replied that his colleague ought to know very well that in criminal prosecutions they could take personal property, but not real estate. He intended to stand by the Constitution at all times.

Mr. DAVIS, of Maryland, (Union,) said the result of the political elections in the Central States had passed the Administration beyond the necessity of relying on such support as the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. COX) would render it, and of the support of a majority of those on the other side acting with him, who voted for a resolution pronouncing this to be an unnatural war. Relying on the votes by which the people sent him (DAVIS) to support and not to oppose the Administration, he would suggest that the other gentlemen might as well execute their commission to sustain the Administration. He proceeded to answer Mr. COX, and said when the gentleman and some of his friends tendered support he would look upon it with suspicion.

The morning hour here expired, and the House proceeded to consider the business on the Speaker's table.

THE CONDUCT OF THE WAR.

The House took up and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs the Senate's joint resolution providing that an appointment of a Select Committee to inquire into the conduct of the war.

THE COMMUTATION MONEY.

The House passed the Senate joint resolution providing that all money paid by drafted persons be paid into the Treasury and drawn out on requisition as are other public moneys, for the payment of the expenses of drafting and the procuration of substitutes, for which purpose the money, when so paid, is hereby appropriated.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE.

The House in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, proceeded to consider the bill reported from the Committee of Ways and Means to increase the Internal Revenue, and other purposes.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) offered an amendment, so that the proviso should read: "That all spirits distilled since the 31st of August, 1862, on hand for sale, or removed for consumption or sale, upon which no duties have been paid or collected, and upon which no returns have been made, whether distilled prior to the date of this act or not, shall be subject to the rates of duty provided by this act from and after the 15th day of January, 1864."

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, (Dem.,) desired to know whether the gentleman intended to report a general tax bill, and why he had in the bill pending proposed to increase the tax on only spirits and cotton.

Mr. STEVENS replied that these two articles were being largely manufactured, and the legislation now proposed would enable the manufacturers to govern themselves accordingly. The Committee on Ways and means found greater difficulty as to tobacco, it being undetermined whether to lay the tax on the leaf, or to modify the tax on the manufactured article. They desired to deliberate also on rock oil. In reply to the question asked by Mr. BROOKS, he said the amount of revenue expected to be derived from the whisky tax was $20,000,000 next year, and some said $60,000,000.

Mr. BROOKS suggested the bill was retroactive, and therefore should not be acted upon hastily, it being of much interest. By increasing the tax on whisky, who is not probable that smuggling would be stimulated on the Canadian and Provincial frontiers.

Mr. STEVENS replied that men would drink whisky whatever it cost. (Laughter.)

Mr. BROOKS said whisky was not used for drinking alone, but entered largely into manufactures. Alcohol, under this bill, would be taxed at least $1 20. The manufacturers, therefore, ought to see this bill in full and have time to communicate with Congress before final action upon it. There was an article in England called "Methylene's spirits," which entered largely into manufactures, and was purposely made duty free in order to enable England to compete with other countries. But Methylene bill no spirits would be manufactured without paying a heavy excise.

Mr. STEVENS' amendment was agreed to.

Several gentlemen spoke as to the effect of the tax on spirits, and among them Mr. FERNANDO WOOD, who said that he intended to offer an amendment so that the excise should fall upon all, including those who had gained advantage by ascertaining in advance what was the recommendation of the Treasury Department.

No further action was taken on the bills.

The House then adjourned.

THE CHESAPEAKE CASE.

The Captors Characterized as Pirates.

HALIFAX, Thursday, Jan. 14.

In the Admiralty Court, yesterday, Judge SEWARD, C. B., to prevent misapprehension and misinterpretation through the press, read a written statement of his views as enunciated upon a previous sitting.

After detailing the circumstances connected with the capture of the Chesapeake, and the subsequent proceedings, his Lordship, referring to the possibility of a plea being submitted in behalf of the Confederates, said:

"But am I, sitting as a Judge of the Court of Admiralty and representing Her Majesty in it, to sustain the plea of men who have violated her proclamation of neutrality, and offered an affront to her dignity; of men who have grossly, and wilfully, and flagrantly violated her territory; cold goods thereto; who have, with revolvers and lawless force, violently resisted the officers seeking to execute the process of her magistrates, and who are at this moment fugitives from justice."

After some conversation with counsel, his Lordship stated to the Court that, under the facts before him, unless shaken by further evidence, he would treat the case as piracy throughout.

The further hearing of the case was then postponed until Wednesday next.

We are informed, to announce that telegrams for Europe are always sent, to be forwarded to St. Johns, N. F., up to the (Friday) sunrise.

The Royal Mail steamer Scotia, Capt. JUDKINS, which left Liverpool at 12:30 P. M. on the 3d inst., and Queenstown on the 5th, arrived here yesterday morning.

The Inman steamer City of London, Capt. PERRY, which sailed from Liverpool at noon on the 30th, and from Queenstown on the 31st December, arrived here yesterday afternoon.

The steamship Hibernian, Capt. BARRAWITH, from Liverpool, at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the 31st of December, via Londonderry on the 1st of January, arrived at Portland at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

These arrivals bring one week's later news from Europe.

The Hibernian makes the following report: Passed January 9th, steamship Damascus off Inistrahull, bound in. On the 11th instant passed steamship Sidon in latitude 49° 31', longitude 26° 04'.

The Columbia from New-York, via St. Johns, N. F., arrived at Galway on Dec. 8, and the Kedar at Liverpool on the same day.

The Etna arrived at Liverpool on Dec. 31, and the Bremen at Southampton, and the Damascus from Portland at Londonderry on Jan. 1.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Correspondence Between Jeff. Davis and the Pope—The Florida Ready to Sail—The Mexican Question—The Funding War.

PARIS, Thursday, Dec. 31, 1863.

A letter of JEFF. DAVIS to the Pope and the Pope's reply are published this week in the French secession papers, obtained probably from the official agents of the rebellion at Paris. Mr. DAVIS would be pleased to have His Holiness declare in favor of peace. He calls the war an impious war, without giving any opinion as to who plays the impious role in it. He says that the enemy has no right to carry destruction of life and devastation into his country, that he does not wish to do any harm to the North, and that all that he asks is to be let alone. To this the Pope replies with words of Christian counsel; but on the political question he takes care to remain perfectly neutral.

The Confederate steamer Florida is about ready to sail from the port of Brest, where she has been repairing for several months past. She now lies in the bay, very close to the Federal gunboat Kearsarge, and is making trials of her new machinery before a final departure. Although Capt. WINSLOW, of the Kearsarge, will do everything in his power to prevent this dangerous vessel from getting to sea again, it is not probable he can accomplish anything, for if the Federal vessel is in the port at the moment the other sails, the twenty-four hours' rule will be applied, while if the Federal vessel attempts to wait outside the line of French jurisdiction, the Florida, which is a faster vessel than the Kearsarge, can easily steal out some dark night.

The Archduke MAXIMILIAN is expected soon at Paris and the ministerial journals now assert that he positively intends to undertake the voyage to Mexico. Thus the testimony becomes so conflicting as to render anything like a sound prediction on the question impossible. If we judge by logic and common sense, he will not go; but there is neither logic nor common sense in the whole enterprise, and to be consistent with itself, the Archduke ought to be placed on the throne. M. ROUHER is said to have informed the Committee on the Address to the Throne, that the Government would be able to withdraw the troops from Mexico in five or six months, and this withdrawal is said to be based on the fact that the Government believes it possible to fix the Prince MAXIMILIAN firmly on the throne by that time. The thing is extremely doubtful.

M. DE GIRARDIN, the able editor of the Presse and the finder of easy and extraordinary solutions on all questions, finds in his issue of yesterday a solution for the Mexican question. After quoting from Mr. LINCOLN'S message of 1861 the passage which declares that "Mexico cannot live without the support of some other State, and that the United States are best suited by their position to give that support, especially in view of the fact that they can never permit any European Power to interfere in the interior relations of their nation," exclaims: "Very well! Let the United States then reimburse France for all the expenses attending the expedition, and let them annex Mexico to the Federal Union! But no, it will not be done. It will be said of this as of other solutions that it is too absolute. But if any one can find a more practicable one we will applaud it with both hands. We only fear that no one will try to find it."

NAPOLEON and his friends now flatter themselves that they have gained a great triumph over the Sovereigns of Europe in the war that threatens to break out from Naples to Kiow, and from the Rhine to Vilna, and which they naturally claim would have been averted by the Congress of Sovereigns, or even by the limited Congress. The embarrassment of NAPOLEON, however, is none the less, as to how he is to escape his present dilemma. The party in France which urges a war in favor of Poland is large, and exactly of that class which makes revolutions, while if the issue of war is accepted it must pronounce Napoleon, and assist and, or most probably will rush, in a coalition against France.

It is believed at this moment that just as sure as war breaks out in the north of Germany just as sure will it also break out in the south of Europe, and then Napoleon will certainly return to the Rhine. And now it is all whispered that the Duke of Augustenburg, in claiming the throne of the Duchies of Holstein and Schleswig, is working in the interest of the German national party, and that this national party is likely to control for the future the destinies of Germany. The movement was launched by the German Sovereigns when they met at Frankfort; it will now be difficult for the Sovereigns to control it. The Congress of German Sovereigns is thus dishonored by the Convention of Deputies of the Nationalverein sitting at Frankfort. It is true Austria and Prussia see their error in allowing the secondary States to take the lead in the affair of the contested Duchies, and now seek again to place themselves at the head by falling into the policy of the secondary States in regard to Schleswig; but the German politicians here say that they are too late, and that the national party in Germany is destined to lead the country into a war.

Thus the year dawns in doubt and uncertainty. The Emperor may to-morrow, in his conversation with the members of the diplomatic corps, pronounce some word which will give an idea of forthcoming events; but the probabilities are that he will not, for His Majesty must be more unfortunate just now than the Ambassadors to whom he is to address himself.

In the meantime commerce is not suffering, and there is a strong confidence in the Emperor and the enormous army which backs him, whatever may happen.

are rather apt to fight for the sake of fighting—fighting the Russians in the Crimea, the Sepoys in India and elsewhere, as it may happen; loyal to England or France, loyal to right or to wrong, but always brave and loyal.

Speaking of loyalty, I see that our old friend GARIBALDI has resigned his seat in the Italian Parliament. He was outraged at the cession of Nice and Savoy. He is dissatisfied with the Government action in Sicily. He withdraws from the Parliament, but wishes it to be understood that he is always ready to march on Rome and Venice. Well, Victor EMANUEL has an army of 300,000 men. He should be able to spare some where, but not on Rome while NAPOLEON is there, and not on Venice until NAPOLEON is ready to lead the way. It seems, indeed, a situation. Why have an army of 300,000 men if he cannot march right or left with it? But all Europe save Russia is in just such a dead lock and perplexed check. They ought to have a Congress.

These days have been passed at a Bermuda window from Mexico. I do not believe that that sate worthy of a moment's attention. I see no reason to believe in any change in the Imperial programme in this country. Francis is one of the last countries in the world to accept of such a humiliation. The Emperor has shown his tenacity in many ways—in the occupation of Rome, for example. I believe that he will not, for one moment, relax his efforts until he has a ship canal across the Isthmus of Suez, and some route across Mexico, connecting the Atlantic and Pacific. Were the civil war at an end in America, it would be different just then; and there been no civil war, no French army would have occupied the City of Mexico.

The Christmas festivities of England have been upon their usual scale. The mince-meats pleasant dings have weighed, from six or seven hundred pounds to a ton. In case you should take a fancy to an English plum-pudding for dinner some day, here is the "receipt" for the one served up at the St. Mary-le-bone Poor-house. It weighed 2,000 lbs., and contained 420 lbs. flour, 220 lbs. suet, 200 lbs. raisins, 200 lbs. currants, 100 lbs. sugar, 700 eggs, 10 gallons ale, 10 gallons milk, 10 lbs. candied orange peel, 6 lbs. spice, 4 lbs. ginger. It must have boiled twenty-four hours. This is the way they feed paupers once a year. I ought perhaps to mention that if you do not require so large a pudding, the same ingredients can be used in smaller quantities. In this union 917 of the recipients of out-door relief are sick and infirm persons, and of these 173 are 80 years old and upward. These are people who have fought their way in the world and sank at last into pauperism from mere weakness. The parish is the last resource of millions of worthy and industrious people who earn a living while in full strength, but must be taken care of when that strength fails. Some apply for relief some shares. MONADNOCK.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

THE FEDERAL AND REBEL CRUISERS.

THE VANDERBILT.

"Capt. Baldwin, of the Vanderbilt, has seized a British vessel in British waters, and sent it as a prize to New-York, and also appropriated British property on British territory. When the Vanderbilt left Simon's Bay, after being generously supplied with coals and other necessaries, it was known or more than that she must have gone to the farest for the purpose of arresting American ships homeward bound with cargoes. It seems, however, that some was played a hoax on Capt. BALDWIN, and made him believe that the Sumter had gone to the Mauritius. Off he started, but when he got to the Mauritius no Sumter was there, and he learned that she had left for Madagascar. He was Saturday in the 15th of last month, and paid flying visits to Algoa Bay and Simon's Bay, on his way down the coast, and then came on to Table Bay, paying us his first visit here on the morning of the day October. The coaling was commenced on the following morning, and two boats had got alongside, when Gov. WODEHOUSE sent assurance of his slightest consideration, that said he would rather take the Alabama than Semmes would just now be taking, and not black diamonds there. In fact, he strictly prohibited him from doing so; and, if there had been any disconsolate on his part, the Vanderbilt was good to go her respects. The Captain of the Vanderbilt remonstrated, and the Federal Consul is said to have not very angry, but all in vain. No belligerent could be supplied with coal at British ports at shorter intervals than three months; that the Vanderbilt had coaled at St. Helena, at Mauritius, and at St. Simon's Bay, all British ports, within three months, and now wished the fourth supply in Table Bay. The only case, his Excellency added, in which one rule might be relaxed was where a vessel was without coals and unable to proceed in her cruise; but the Vanderbilt had then on board 250 tons, which might carry her to some port other than British. The American Consul was still urgent, when the Governor politely vetoished him how he had protested against many similar favors being granted to the Alabama, which vessel had not been by any means so liberally treated as the Vanderbilt. A deserter from the Alabama, who had come up in a canoe from the Kromme River, informed the Vanderbilt of the fact, and then on board 256 men

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Richmond papers as late as the 13th have been received at Fortress Monroe. There is nothing of special interest reported. A dispatch from Charleston states that our forces were busy repairing the damage done to our batteries by the storm. Snow had fallen to the depth of four inches at Orange Court-house. A dispatch from Gen. Lee announced that the rebels had captured in Hardy County 125 cattle, 135 mules and 200 prisoners—probably the fruit of Averill's raid. A dispatch from Wilmington, Jan. 11, announces that "the steamer Hero was run ashore near Georgetown after landing the navy officers." This was probably a blockade-runner. It also states that "one Yankee steamer was blown up and twenty-four prisoners captured," but how, when or where is not explained.

By telegraph from Fortress Monroe it is stated that the gunboat Iron Age got aground on the 11th inst. near Wilmington, and was under the fire of the rebel sand batteries. The frigate Minnesota had gone to her assistance.

A dispatch from the Army of the Potomac states that Hon. John Minor Botts has been urged to accept the appointment of United States Senator from Virginia, but that he is unwilling to do so.

The case of the Chesapeake is still before the Admiralty Court at Halifax. On Wednesday, in order to correct any misapprehension of his remarks, Judge Strong announced that he would treat the case as one of piracy throughout.

Maj.-Gen. Burnside has been authorized by the War Department to recruit his old army corps (the Ninth) to a maximum of fifty thousand men. This corps served under him in the expedition to North Carolina, and also in the East Tennessee campaign, and when its thinned ranks are full important special duty will be assigned it to perform.

FROM EUROPE.

There were three arrivals from Europe yesterday, viz.: the Scotia and City of London at this port, and the Hibernia at Portland, bringing news a week later than our Scotia advices. Our files and correspondence present us with an interesting budget. The correspondence between Jeff. Davis and the Pope has been published, in which the rebel chief asks the mediation of His Holiness in favor of peace. The Pope replies in words of Christian counsel, but does not compromise his neutrality by hitching a political sentiment. The pirate Florida was nearly ready to sail from Brest, and, although the gunboat Kearsarge was in that harbor and would do everything to prevent her escape, there was little probability of her succeeding, in view of the application of the twenty-four hours' rule by the French Government. A letter from Cape Town, referring to the recent seizure by Capt. Bazeman, of the United States steamer Vanderbilt of the rebel bark Sazon, and the destruction of rebel coal on Penguin Island, characterizes these acts as serious infractions of international law, for which England must demand redress. The British Government has instituted a very strict investigation into the conduct of the workmen and officials at Sheerness, who assisted and connived at the escape of the Rappahannock, and all against whom the offence has been proved have been required to resign. The London Times, in referring to the enlistment of men at Cork for the United States steamer Kearsarge, points to the conduct of the American Government when England was supposed to be recruiting in the United States during the Crimean war, and says it is not too much to hope that the United States should weigh themselves in the same balance in which they weighed Great Britain. At the usual reception of the Diplomatic corps at the Tuileries on New-Year's Day, the Emperor significantly observed to Mr. Dayton that he hoped the year 1864 would be one of peace and reconciliation for the United States. The semi-official French journals were exhibiting a decidedly anti-English tone. Schleswig-Holstein affairs still continued to absorb much attention. The Prince of Augustenburg had written a letter to Napoleon imploring his countenance and favor, to which the latter had replied, gracefully snubbing the expectant ruler of Holstein. The Duke, under date of Dec. 31, had issued a proclamation, dated Kiel, under the title of the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, in which he expresses himself as being certain that his claims will be recognized. Rossuth's proclamation to the people of Hungary, before given by telegraph, is published in full. It denounces a new General Conscription, and hopes that the Hungarians will promptly execute every order emanating from it, in order that the detested yoke of German domination may be shaken off. Garasson has resigned his seat in the Chamber of Deputies.

GENERAL NEWS.

At the meeting of the Board of Councilmen, yesterday, a resolution was adopted, directing the Street Commissioner to remove all the incumbrances from the carriage-way on Battery-place, between Broadway and West-street. Merchants on this and the adjoining streets have long used a large portion of Battery-place for mercantile purposes, [illegible] of bales, casks, &c. Mayor Gunther, and [illegible] reformers generally, [illegible] Physician of the unhealthy condition of the Park Barracks, and the votes accompanying the draft of an ordinance for the temporary improvement of the Broadway pavement, by directing the Croton Board to sprinkle coarse gravel and sand over it, at intervals, to diminish the risk of slipping. Both communications were referred. A resolution was adopted requesting the Corporation Counsel to draft an ordinance for the better sanitary regulation of tenement houses, as suggested by the Mayor in his communication from the Commissioners of Health. The Standing Committees for the year were announced by the President, and the Board adjourned to Monday next o'clock, P. M.

Richmond papers of the 1st and 3d have been received in this City. The Sentinel of the 1st says that indications favor the idea that the Federals contemplate an advance upon Kingston, with a view to the extension of the lines which now reach from Trenton on the west and Oak River on the south. The movement anticipated will probably carry the lines to New River on the one hand and Kingston on the other. A demonstration is expected upon the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, and threatening the communication with Richmond. It is claimed that Jackson's operations against Averill resulted in the capture of an ambulance train, with two hundred prisoners, including eight of Averill's officers, his Adjutant-General, a Lieutenant-Colonel, a number of campaign maps, and about fifty negroes. The inauguration of Gov. Smith took place on the 1st. An order has been issued from the War Department prohibiting the departure of any male citizen from the Confederacy during the pending war, unless he shall first file in the department a certificate from the proper military authorities that he is unfit for military service.

The manner of Judge Calen B. Smith's death was very sudden. It was caused by hemorrhage of the lungs. He left home in the morning, with his son, to attend Court, which was in session, and appeared to be in his usual health, which, however, for some months past, has not been very robust. On arriving at the court-house he went into his private room to rest a few moments before opening Court, and while sitting before the fire was seized with a fit of coughing, which, in some unexplained way, ruptured a blood-vessel, and caused a profuse and almost choking flow of blood. He was taken to a room, but lived only a short time.

Gen. Grant was lately rallied about the persistent and preposterous use, by a New-York paper, of his name for the Presidency. The General replied: "I aspire only to one political office. When this war is over, I mean to run for Mayor of Galena (his place of residence.) And if elected, I intend to have the sidewalk fixed up between my house and the depot."

Advices from Japan say that the parties of the Tycoon and Prince Satsuma have agreed upon the expulsion of the foreigners from that country. The yielding of the Tycoon was attributed to the pressure of Prince Satsuma.

A number of vacant paymasterships in the army are said now to exist. This will be good news to a great many aspirants, unless the statement which is made that the loose manner in which appointments have heretofore been made has been abandoned for a more careful scrutiny of the character of such appointees should throw them into despair again.

Some person writes from the West to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, asking if the treaties with the Indians prevent him from gathering together 10,000 buffaloes, which he proposes to drive to the nearest point of railroad communication, the object being to supply the army with buffalo meat.

The "Calico Dress Ball," which wound up the Great Western Sanitary Fair at Cincinnati, netted about $2,000. Of the ladies present, the "calico" representation comprised about one-half, but the suggestion of the Managers to appear in calico, avoiding all costly costume, jewelry and other decorations, was not observed to the letter, particular—many of those appearing in calico being prominently conspicuous for their wealth of diamonds, costly head-dresses, &c. The "cheap dishes" were of every shade and character known to the dry-goods profession.

An active business was reported in Cotton yesterday, at a shade firmer prices. Flour was in fair demand, and advancing. Wheat was in brisk request, chiefly for export, at an advance of 2 cents ⅌ bushel. Corn was unsettled. Provisions, Tallow and Whisky were in less demand. Hay, Hops and Wool were selling freely. Heavier freight engagements were reported.

Money was in easier supply, though at dear rates, yesterday, to the Stock Exchange Brokers. The Railway speculation is on a large scale, at excited prices. The price of Gold was 1 ⅌ cent. higher.

The Next Presidency.

Any exciting discussion at this time concerning the nomination to be made by the Union party for the next Presidency is to be deprecated. The war demands concentrated attention, and the most harmonious spirit. Yet we hail with satisfaction such spontaneous expressions of preference as are now emanating from State Legislatures, Union Conventions, and other bodies representative of the loyal people. We hail them precisely because they are tokens that there will be no exciting discussion—that there will be a general recognition that the public interests require the continuance of Mr. Lincoln at the head of affairs.

Undoubtedly there are other true men—we believe many—who would have the ability to carry this war successfully through. No sensible person will say, at this stage of the rebellion, that the fate of the country depends upon the life or the renomination of Abraham Lincoln. Perhaps the time has been when this was the case. Perhaps his singular combination of prudence with boldness, of great steadiness of mind with great power of adaptation to circumstances, was something peculiar to himself, and had just that character which alone could save the Republic in the terrible dangers which have beset it. Perhaps, too, his peculiar transparency of character, his remarkable faculty—never equaled in any other President since the first—of inspiring every one with a sense that he is a thoroughly honest and trustworthy man, has been the only one thing that prevented faction from obtaining a fatal ascendency at the crisis of the war. The people were willing to trust Abraham Lincoln with an amount of power they would have hardly confided to any other man. The tirades of demagogues against him as a grasping usurper, a selfish tyrant, a subverter of free government, were felt to be not simply false, but utterly absurd. It may be that this absolute confidence, such as no other man could have inspired, was that which secured, as nothing else could have done, a freedom of executive action, an independence of factious opposition, that alone saved the country. But these critical periods have passed. The rebellion has spent its main force, and henceforward can only languish. Faction has done its worst, and is dangerous no longer. Though it may be that under any other President the Republic would have perished last year, or the year previous, not even his greatest admirer will say that its fate, now or hereafter, is dependent on his official life.

Yet we rejoice in these signs that the popular heart is set upon his renomination. We don't say that such a renomination is due to him for his transcendent services. No public officer—not even the President—is due to any man, least of all the Presidency of the United States. He who does his utmost for the Republic simply does his duty. He puts the Republic under no indebtedness to him. Service to it is like service to our Maker—it earns nothing; it furnishes claim to nothing; it is the discharge of an obligation, not the creation of one. All this talk about this or that man having a claim to office belongs only to the very lowest sort of political morality—to that school which has no such word as duty in its vocabulary, and which attributes a price to every human action. Abraham Lincoln cannot but be conscious that he has "done the State some service;" but he would be the last man to lay claim to a renomination on that ground or any other. The matter is in no degree personal. The public advantage is the sole consideration. And this advantage, beyond all question, favors the renomination.

Though it is perfectly true that the crisis of the struggle is past, and that it cannot be said that any particular man is any longer a necessity to the national cause, the time of effort is by no means over. Difficult campaigns have yet to be made; but there are greater difficulties yet of a civil character to be solved. It is now virtually settled that the Republic is to live; but it is yet to be determined whether its restoration to good order, and security, and sound prosperity will be rapid, or whether it will linger for years on years. This will depend mainly upon the spirit and wisdom of the Government at Washington. To its spirit we must look for the healing of the national wounds which the war will leave, and the revival all through the land of a common sentiment of patriotism, which shall consign the past to oblivion, and open the way for the very broadest nationality. On its wisdom we must rely for the smooth and safe transition of the reclaimed territory from military rule to its normal civil condition; and for the devising and applying of the measures of a more social bearing made necessary by the emancipation of millions of slaves. If the Government fails to meet these great questions—bequeathed to it by its success in the war—in the right spirit and with the right understanding, this generation, North and South, white and black, will pay for it in untold misery.

It is because the people appreciate that such consequences are at stake that they so early manifest a purpose to continue President Lincoln in office for another term. They find in his past success over the greatest difficulties their best security that he will be equal to any which the future may present. The country the many servants, both in military and in civil life, who have acquitted themselves most nobly, and who, it is probable, could fitly meet every duty of the Presidency. Yet this is by no means certain. A man's adaptation to an official place cannot be perfectly known until it is practically tested—least of all to a place requiring such a peculiar combination of qualities as the Executive chair, in these extraordinary days of the Republic. It is no time to risk anything. The same wise policy that would forbid a man of business in troublous times to change his agent of proved efficiency, impels the loyal people of our country to continue President Lincoln in his responsible position; and against the confirmed will of the people, politicians are powerless.

The Market Price of Gold—Senator Lane's Proposition.

Senator Lane, of Kansas, proposes to make it an offence, punishable with fine and imprisonment, to sell gold at any higher price than is paid for the time being in the market for United States Bonds paying six per cent. interest in gold, except in the case of merchants buying gold for purchases abroad. It will be well for Mr. Lane to inform the Senate, before the bill is read a third time, how the law is to be enforced. It will have no moral sanction to aid it, for he will never succeed in persuading anybody of ordinary intelligence that it is morally wrong to pay the market price for one of the precious metals. And the sale of gold is a transaction which can always be carried out with sufficient secrecy to render it very difficult to procure evidence of its having been attended with any illegality. Neither of the parties to it will have any motive for informing against his confederate, except the reward, and this will hardly operate very powerfully upon anybody who is privy to many bargains of this nature. Those who have gold to sell, or seek to buy it, will not be at all likely to come before the world as common informers for the sake of two or three thousand dollars particularly, as, if they did, it would probably be the last sale of this commodity of which they would be allowed to become cognizant, by people who knew them. We shall say nothing of the inexpediency of committing offences which depend for their punishment upon the growth of a spirit of deceit, treachery and espionage among the people, though this has always been, in the eyes of all wise legislators, a consideration of the first importance. It is always highly demoralizing, and therefore highly impolitic, to seek to offer pecuniary inducements to rogues to betray others into the commission of acts which, though prohibited by law, are not condemned by the moral sense of the community; and this is precisely what Mr. Lane's bill, if it ever becomes a law, will do.

We have always maintained that the premium on gold was not a just measure either of the depreciation of the paper currency, or of the weakness of the public credit. When gold ceased to be the only legal tender, it fell into the rank of a commodity, like any other metal, and its price became subject to the same conditions; and this is the view taken of its position in England during the last suspension of specie payments, by such economists as Hume and Ricardo, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

GUERRIER'S DEFENCES.

[Written for the Herald of the New-York Times.]

NEW-YORK CITY, Dec. 28, 1863.

Your late remarks on the "monitors" lead me to hope that there is some chance for fair play for those who believe a "monitor" to be the best means of naval architecture to be found; and if I can spare my time and patience on your space in order to set some questions, and explain my views concerning such "shot-proof vessels," it is with a view to the general public good and the improvement of the navy, as well as any personal considerations of my own.

In the first place, do the American people desire to have a ship which shall be unsinkable, shot-proof, and formidable with aggressive as well as defensive powers? If they do, I think the thing is not impossible; but, in order to arrive at perfection, more pains than one seem to exist.

The monitors, as now constructed, have been supposed to be shot-proof, but at what expense? At the expense of their seaworthiness, their aggressive power and their speed. The great evil in a monitor is its great weight of armor, which is considered actually necessary to prevent shot, and from this one cause result all the other evils of unseaworthiness, want of speed and diminished aggressive power. Remedy this evil, and you can easily overcome the remaining defects.

In the second place, are the public ready to admit that the doubling the resistance to penetration of a given amount of material, without increasing its weight, is of any advantage? If they are, I have chimes to Gone, but it can only be done by plans which exactly augmente the system now in use. In other words, a cannon-ball can be stopped with a given amount of material, which is so arranged as to offer a greater resistance, which cannot be stopped with the same given amount by main force. I have the satisfaction to be the inventor and patentee of a theoretically "New System of Defensive Armor." I say satisfaction, for, in addition to having great means to its perfection, it has made me easily more enemies than friends. About a year ago, as impressed was I with the importance of my discovery, that I got only most out patents for it, but I went to Washington with letters of introduction to Mr. Lincoln from responsible parties, who knew I could do so I proposed to demonstrate to do—i. e., double the resistance of a given amount of material without increasing its weight, or reduce the weight of a monitor's armor fifty per cent, and not diminish its shot-resisting qualities. But I found no good result from my letters, and the President failed to see the importance of my theory, from the very limited attention which he gave to my explanation of it. I next went to the Navy Department and had an interview with Assistant Secretary Fox. This gentleman told me that "Admiral Dahlgren would put a ball through forty such targets as I proposed constructing." This information was all that was necessary to cause me to leave Washington, which I did with the full conviction that Assistant Secretary Fox or I myself was very much mistaken. From Washington I came to New-York, and after some delay made the acquaintance of Mr. W. H. Webb, to whom I explained my system. The result was that a target was constructed in New-York which represented two different systems of armor—one, my new system, the other the system then and now in use. The target was about six feet long by eight inches wide, and was two-faced, each side showing a different system, as before mentioned. Word limit understood, in that the same piece of iron passed entirely across the face of the target, and the same actual sticks of timber formed the backing, and also that the system so shown contained the same given amount of material, and as nearly the same quality as it is possible to have in the two backs of the piece of timber and one piece of iron. We were quite particular in order that no question should be raised as to the quality of the material used. My system proposes to stop the shot by "gradual resistance," and to this end I placed my iron in "main armor" at the intermediate point, and checked the progress of the shot by an outer covering of timber, which armor being backed or sustained by the "armor proper" or "main armor" behind it, offered infinite more resistance than if it were unsustained by an iron backing. This outer coating of timber effectually checked the shot, and the iron armor, which was not seriously injured by the destruction of the timber in front of it, proved to be, what I call it, the "armor proper," at which the shot was arrested. My system, which places the "main armor" in what may be called reserve, does not propose to stop the shot at the immediate surface, but it provides a material to receive the first or maximum force of the shot, which is light and compact, instead of heavy, and which is a non-conductor of heat—which material is intended to receive the damage which must be inflicted on something before a cannon-ball can be stopped suddenly, and which is much more easily and cheaply repaired than the "iron armor" would be—which, were it not for this timber, would take the first blow of the shot, and not only produce concussion and strain, but receive that injury from which the timber saves it—and after the momentum of the shot is to a great extent absorbed by the timber, through which it has to pass in order to reach the "iron armor," it is met and resisted in its diminished force by our "main resistance," i. e., iron plates, with an impacted cushion of wood between it and the "iron armor," thus diffusing the blow over a much greater surface, and rendering less amount of iron armor necessary, as well as removing the great defect of "ball breaking." Many other great advantages result from the use of this system of armor, which can be given at a future time.

The present system of "iron-clad" offers the whole resistance to the first or maximum force of the shot, which is supposed to stop at the immediate surface. If the armor is so thick as to stop the shot, it only does so at the expense of shattering the timber backing, or if all else, as in a turret, at the expense of starting bolts, and denting or bulging the armor in such a manner that it will not resist a second shot in the same place, and which being no longer shot-proof, must therefore be repaired. Many suppose that the turret of a "monitor," when struck by heavy shot, shows the injury inflicted on the outside; but this is not so. To use the effect of a heavy shot on an iron structure such as a turret, you must look behind it, or inside it, when you will find the bulge increase in size just as the thickness of the iron is compared to the size of the shot. The first, or outer plate will be most likely penetrated, and the shot will imbed itself perhaps one inch in the second plate, showing apparently no serious injury; but look inside, and you will find that the dent from the outside produces a bulge on the inside which increases in size in each plate from the point of the shot's impact in the inside of the turret, until the inside plates, or those which are farthest from the shot, crack and bend open under the strain, the bolt-heads fly off, and a bulge is produced which cannot be straightened out by a tinker, like a dent in a tea-bottle; but, to repair which, it is necessary to take all the fractured plates out and substitute new ones. This is no easy matter, when it is considered that the walls of the turret are fifteen inches thick, and that the bolts holding the several plates together will be more or less bent and strained, requiring to be "knocked out" by a slow and tedious, as well as expensive process. All of this damage might be avoided, or a great part of it, by the use of a yielding outer covering, which should check, will, or break up the shot before the shot or main armor, was brought to bear on it. Surround a monitor's turret with a timber covering of twelve fifty inches more or less of timber, cover this timber with a thin sheathing of iron, to prevent it from being too readily burned, or fired off by raking or glancing shot, and in place of, or to make up for, the weight of this foot of timber and half inch of iron sheathing—which in all, will weigh about as much as two inches of iron—take from the iron armor of the turret one-half of its iron, i. e. reduce it from 15 inches to 7½ inches in thickness. Now when you have reduced the weight of the turret one-half by removing 7½ inches of iron, put on my armor of a foot of wood and one inch of iron, and although the turret will be 33⅓ per cent. lighter in actual weight, I guarantee that the armor of a shot or shell to have deceptive to the iron armor, shattering, A.A.1½ inches, then it was to the whole, 15 inches.

Any one who reads the Scientific Record and thinks before, the outer wood armor commences to injure the iron armor, and the iron armor begins to injure the wood armor, and the two armors begin to operate according to prescribed from whatever material with the ball itself, is the same line that the ball lives "balls up" that timber and forcemen in rotation each over what it would view, if the iron were removed and wood substituted. Wood can be made bended wood and iron can be made bent iron. Thus when the turret is now constructed, it stands by a shot, the first or outer plate communicates the force to the next one, and so on till the whole turret is knocked out of shape; but substitute wood in place of iron outside—one the wood be made to communicate force to the inner plates? I think not; and in order to bend the inner plates, as "main armor," the ball has got to chase and in the most that. But the trouble is, how is the ball to get rid of the timber which it has driven ahead of it, and which still seems ahead of it, and chases it, so to speak? Where is it to go to? Timber cannot be forced through iron by any sudden shock like that of a cannon ball. Timber may be forced through iron by a sustained power. But is a cannon-ball a sustained power? Now, as there is no outlet for the timber, which the ball will drive ahead of it, except through the iron armor, and as no sane person will argue that this timber will bend said iron armor, it follows that the ball is stopped at the iron, or "armor proper," with an impacted cushion of wood ahead of it, as before explained. But in explaining my system, I have left out the facts and gone to theories. The target I mentioned was taken off to the stone quarry at the foot of Forty-second-street, East River, and there, in the presence of Mr. W. H. Webb and many other responsible persons, (whose names can be given if required,) fired at with a cannon. Each system was submitted to the same test, i. e., fired at with the same weight and kind of shot, same charge and quantity of powder, and same range, which was not more than 60 feet. When my system was fired at, the shot was stopped, as I predicted, at the "iron armor." When the other side of the target was fired at, i. e., that arranged on the present system, the shot went clean through it, and was broken to fragments against the wall of the quarry immediately behind the target. The result of this test was that through Mr. Webb's assistance my plans were brought to the notice of the Navy Department, and submitted to the most powerful tests then known, i. e., fired at with the 11-inch Dahlgren gun, with full service charge of powder, at 60 feet range. The target I used was an old damaged target, which had been before fired at, and which was thoroughly weakened and shattered, and which was just like plenty of others in the Navy-yard, being about eight feet by four feet, composed of two feet of wood backing and six-inch iron plate. Over the inner face of this target, which was not greatly damaged (having a slight crack running across it, but which was nevertheless shattered,) I added an outer covering of pine timber, twelve inches thick—equivalent, in actual weight, to about five-eighths of an inch of iron. I say "I added;" I should say I had added, but it was very imperfectly put on, the men not being governed by my directions, as much as others who took the management of my experiments. This old cracked target was placed in the bank at Fresh Battery, and firmly rammed there and secured at the top by a cable which was made fast to a tree some distance behind, and fired at with the 11-inch gun at 60 feet, with 30 lbs. of powder; but notwithstanding Assistant Secretary Fox said "Admiral Dahlgren would put a ball through forty such targets," the target was not penetrated. The ball did not go through the iron plate, but broke into hundreds of fragments against it, and the resistance was proved to be great, by the fact that the target, which had stood on end and perpendicular, was driven into the solid bank at such an angle, that had it not have been for the cable before mentioned, it would have fallen over on its face. I believe there has been never a single instance in all the experiments, where the 11-inch gun with full service charge of powder, i. e., 30 pounds, at this short range, has failed to penetrate such a target as I describe, when arranged on the present system, and not only to penetrate it, but to put a ball from four feet in ten feet into the solid bank behind the target, while in my case the ball was stopped and the backing behind the armor was not practically injured. The result of this experiment was, that another trial was ordered by the department, and this time nine targets were to be made, one to test my system and one to test the present system, so as to see the comparative difference. For this purpose a miserable, little target was made only four feet square, at which it was proposed to fire 11-inch shot. Of course it will be readily seen that owing to the small size of the target, the wood could not be secured, and if it was so, would not offer that resistance which might be expected from a larger surface. To illustrate this, let any one drive a nail through a piece of wood, a foot square and an inch thick, and then through a piece one inch square. Will not the small piece split much more readily than the larger piece, notwithstanding the thickness is equal? Or, let any one try to split a board laid down on a floor, and sustained by the surrounding timber, and then take the board out of the floor, and try and split it; or, to place the matter still plainer, fire a Colt's revolver at a melon or a pill-box, or anything else only sixteen times as large as the bullet—and would you expect to find out the resistance offered by the walnut? or, would you not rather be more surprised to find the walnut, or any part of it, at all, providing you struck it? This is the way my experiments were conducted in Washington Navy-yard—a 11-inch gun fired at a target four feet square—and I presume it knocked it end over end—or smashed it all to pieces, but as the targets were not made in accordance with my ideas, and as, after they were finished, I was informed that a delay of a month would be necessary before they could be fired at, I concluded to go home to Illinois, which I did, fully intending to return and witness the conclusion of the farce. And I should have done so, but that I had scarcely got home, when I was informed "that the firing could be done at any time," and "that the authorities were anxious to get the experiments concluded," and before I could, thus taken by surprise, arrange to leave home, I received notice by a telegram "that the firing was concluded and the result unsatisfactory." And now, after a lapse of nearly a year, I find my exact system is being used on the Onondaga, without consulting with me in any way. And I also learn that it has been applied, in part, to the monitors at Charleston, and at other points to other vessels. And to see if a United States patent gives the privileges and advantages it purports to do, is the chief object I have in New-York. If, by such improvements as I propose, the navy could be rendered more efficient, it ought not to be kept in the background because some few would-be authorities in such matters would have to admit that they had been in error; or for the more powerful reason, that they would lose pecuniarily by the admission. Once more assuring you that my object in what I have said is as much for the general good as my own, and trusting that some champion of "static force," or iron armor as now used, will come into the lists and give a tilt with me, which shall ultimately result in dragging truth into daylight, and improving our navy, I am, &c., GRADUAL RESISTANCE.

THE NEW SENSATION.—Mdme. DEMOREST is entitled to the lasting gratitude of the male sex for the valuable invention of the Imperial Dress Elevator, by which a great variety of expensive dresses will be effected, and we be no longer shocked by seeing rich material doing the work of scavengers. THE U. S. SANITARY COMMISSION is in urgent want of funds. Its operations for the relief of the army were never more extensive and effective than now. Its depots and agents are at every military center, from Washington to the Potomac. Its medical supplies of the supplies it furnished to the Army of the Potomac during and immediately after Gettysburg, exceeded seventy thousand dollars. Its issues at Chattanooga were on a like scale. Thousands of our wounded "Sanitary Relief" are daily cared for in its "Homes." Its steamboats and wagon trains follow our soldiers everywhere. Its other and equally important departments of work, Sanitary Inspection, Hospital Inspection, Hospital Directory, Transportation of the sick and wounded, &c., are in full operation. The cost of all this life saving work, is met by the Sanitary Fairs, which have past and present, its funds are now much reduced, and large contributions are requested to sustain it.

The Fairs that have been got up with such admirable and unprecedented energy and success at Chicago, Cincinnati and Boston, should receive every where as "for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission," have not as yet contributed a dollar to its treasury. The large sums thus raised have been received by the branches of the Commission at those cities respectively.

Their branches supply them most usefully, mainly to the purchase of material to be made up into clothing, bedding, &c., and for like purposes. They thus relieve the treasury of the Commission from the necessity of purchasing supplies belonging to certain classes. But they render no aid to any other department of its work.

Those who desire full information as to the organization, method and cost of the Commission are referred to a statement of its system and of the application of its funds just published, copies of which may be had on application at the office of the United States Sanitary Commission, No. 823 Broadway, or at the bookstore of A. D. F. Randolph, No. 683 Broadway.

It is submitted to all humane and patriotic men that the Commission has saved, and is daily saving lives the country cannot afford to lose; what it is doing to economize the life and health of our soldiers is worth to the country ten times the money the Commission has received; and is of direct pecuniary benefit to every one interested in diminishing the cost and the duration of the war.

Contributions may be sent to the Treasurer, at No. 68 Wall-st., or No. 823 Broadway, New-York.

AGAIN NEW TESTIMONY.

READ.

HARLEM, July 20, 1863.

I have been deaf for over twenty-five years, and Dr. Von Eisenberg operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as if I spoke like for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evinces the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

NO. 620 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deservedly reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.
O. HOPKINS.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 25, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent coughing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a nausea and a dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is unskillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot further again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. Von Eisenberg, is now clear and good; indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.
JAMES LITTLE,
No. 345 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 2.

I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great weariness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disarranged and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr. Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment of Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which controls his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.

CHICAGO AND GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY,
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS,
FOR $2,000,000.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS OPENED WITH
Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GERHARD, Bankers,
No. 21 Nassau-st., New-York.

The Chicago and Great Eastern Railway Company now offer for sale one million and one hundred thousand dollars of their first mortgage bonds, in sums of one thousand dollars each, maturing in thirty years, bearing interest at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum, payable in the City of New-York, on the first days of April and October. These bonds are secured by a first and only mortgage on the property, income and franchise of the Railway Company, executed to Frederick Schuchardt and Henry Gerhard, of the City of New-York, Trustees. Of the two hundred and one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds here set apart and reserve in the hands of the said Trustees, for the purpose of being exchanged for the indebtedness of the Chicago and Cincinnati Railroad Company, running from La Crosse to Indianapolis; this effective, the $1,000,000 will form a First and only Mortgage on about 60 miles of road 120 miles in length, extending from Chicago to Lafayette, Indiana, and connecting with the Cincinnati and Chicago Air-line Railroad, forming the shortest line by 40 miles, between Chicago and Cincinnati, and by 20 miles the shortest line between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

It will also open, in connection with roads now in operation, entirely new and very direct lines from Chicago to New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and all Eastern cities. The distance between Chicago and New-York by this route being shorter than by either of the existing lines via Dunkirk or Buffalo.

The road is now under contract, and the most strenuous efforts will be made to have it open for traffic during the summer of 1864.

The interest on the Bonds maturing during the progress of the work has been provided for, and will remain on deposit with the Bankers of the Company. Messrs. SCHUCHARDT & GERHARD, No. 21 Nassau-st., to whom the Company refer for further particulars, and where subscription books for this loan now have been opened.

U. S. 5-20 LOAN.

We beg to call attention to the comparatively small amount of Five-Twenty Bonds remaining unsold, now less than thirty-four millions, and would suggest the importance of subscribers being sent in at forthwith, as it is probable it will be the last extension, after which they will not be obtainable except at a premium. The demand occasioned by the formation of new Banks, as well as for foreign account, is daily increasing.

Large delay is anticipated in delivery of the future. We continue for the present to allow one-eighth per cent. commission to purchasers.

UNITED STATES MARSHAL'S SALE.
In the Circuit Court of the United States, District of Indiana, November Term, 1863.

Robert L. Cutting vs. the President and Directors of the Peru and Indianapolis Railroad Company, et al.

NOTICE is hereby given, that on the 15th day January, 1864, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the Court-house, in the city of Indianapolis, County of Marion, and State of Indiana, the undersigned, the Marshal of the United States of the District aforesaid, by virtue of a certified copy of the decree rendered and made by the Court in the above entitled cause, issued by the Clerk of said Court, he will sell at vendue and public outcry, the following described property and rights of the said Peru and Indianapolis Railroad Company, to wit:

The Peru and Indianapolis Railroad, running and extending from Peru, in the County of Miami, and State of Indiana, through the Counties of Miami, Howard, Tipton, Hamilton and Marion, to the City of Indianapolis, in said County of Marion; and all and singular the land and real estate of which the said Railroad Company was, on the 6th day of March, 1854, or now is seized or possessed, together with all the land under and on each side of the track, to the whole width and extent that the said Company was or is seized or possessed of the same, together with the superstructure, tracks and rails thereon and the bridges, viaducts, fences, depot grounds, and buildings thereon, engines, cars, tools, materials, machinery, and all the personal property, rights thereto of interest therein of the said Company, and also all that certain piece of land extending from the terminations of the said Railroad at Peru to the Lake Erie, Wabash and St. Louis Railroad, acquired or to be acquired by said Company, and the road built or to be built thereon, with the superstructure and equipment or to be placed thereon, and all the depot grounds acquired or to be acquired, and all other property, real or personal, acquired or to be acquired by said Company; and also all the tolls, rents, and income to be had or derived from the said Railroad extending from Peru to Indianapolis, and the extension thereof to the Lake Erie, Wabash and St. Louis Railway, now called the Toledo and Wabash Railway Company, and all franchises, rights, and privileges of the said Peru and Indianapolis Railroad Company of, in, or concerning the same and any and every part thereof.

The same and singular the said property will first be offered for sale, and if, upon failure, it realizes a sufficient sum to satisfy the demand due upon said decree, I will, at the same time and place, in like manner offer for sale the fee simple of the property, effects, rights and franchises above described, ordered to be sold as the property of the said Peru and Indianapolis Railroad Company in the above-entitled suit.

The sale will be made without relief from the valuation and appraisement laws of the State of Indiana; and said property, &c., will be sold as an entirety, and subject to the prior and paramount lien of the deed of trust or mortgage executed by said Company on the 1st day of July, 1853, to James Winslow, as Trustee, to secure the payment of the bonds of the Company, amounting to $600,000, and interest thereon, which interest, unpaid on the 1st day of July, 1863, amounted to $69,134 17, and also subject to the rights and claims of the judgment recovered by the Madison and Indianapolis Railroad Company against said Peru and Indianapolis Railroad Company, in the Fall of 1858, in the Circuit Court of Marion County, Indiana, for $37,822, and which judgment has been assigned to Francis B. Cutting. The purchase money must be paid at the time the property is struck off, and upon payment the property will be offered and sold, the purchaser so failing to pay being responsible for any loss upon the offering.

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR FORAGE.

CHIEF QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON DEPOT, Dec. 5, 1863.

SEALED PROPOSALS are invited by the undersigned for supplying the United States Quartermaster's Department, at Washington, the Baltimore, Md., Alexandria and Fort Monroe, Va., or either of these places, with Hay, Oats and Straw.

Bids will be received for the delivery of 5,000 bushels of corn or oats, and 50 tons of hay or straw, and upward.

Proposals must state which place they propose to make delivery at, and the rates at which they will make deliveries thereat, the quantity of each article proposed to be delivered, the time when said deliveries shall be commenced, and when to be completed.

The price must be written out in words on the bids.

Corn to be put up in good short sacks, of about two bushels each. Oats in like sacks of about three bushels each. The sacks to be furnished without extra charge to the Government. The hay and straw to be put up in bales.

The particular kind or description of oats, corn, hay or straw, proposed to be delivered must be stated in the proposals.

All the articles offered under the bids herein invited, will be subject to a rigid inspection by the Government Inspector before being accepted.

Contracts will be awarded from time to time to the lowest responsible bidder, as the interest of the Government may require, and payment will be made when the whole amount contracted for shall have been delivered and accepted.

The bidder will be required to accompany his proposal with a guarantee, signed by two responsible persons, that the one who bids is accepted, he or they will, within ten days after the receipt of the contract for the same, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the officer inviting proposals, to deliver the articles proposed in conformity with the terms of this advertisement; and in case the said bidder should fail to enter into the contract, they to make good the difference between the offer of said bidder and the next lowest responsible bidder, or the person to whom the contract may be awarded.

Witness our hands and seals this ——— day of ———, 1863.

(Seal.)

I hereby certify that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, the above signed guarantors are good and sufficient sureties for the persons for which they offer to be sureties.

To the Gentlemen in the United States District Attorney, Collector of Customs or any other officer under the United States Government, or responsible person known in this place.

All proposals received under this advertisement will be opened at this office on the 1st and 15th days of each month, between the hours of 12 M. and 2 P. M., Sundays excepted, or the next day following, if any of these days shall be a Sunday, when bidders are impartially invited to be present, or the opening of bids if they do so desire.

L. H. RUCKER,
Brigadier-General and Quartermaster.

And such other Hospitals as may be established upon the Texas coast.

Proposals will be made according to the following form:

PROPOSALS FOR ICE.

(RESIDENCE AND DATE.)

The undersigned proposes to furnish daily, or otherwise, (as required by the Medical Director,) the best quality of ice to such hospitals in the Department of ——— and in such quantities as the Medical Director of this Department may order, at the following price per hundred pounds, namely: ———

The ice to be subject to the approval of the Surgeon in charge of each hospital, who will report for the correct amount delivered.

Payment to be made on duplicate bills, certified to by the Medical Director of this Department.

As a guaranty of the faithful performance of the above agreement, should the contract be awarded to me, I will enter into a bond, with the following named sureties, in the penal sum of $———, payable to the United States, in the inclosed form of guaranty the names of guarantors, certified by the Clerk of the nearest District Court, or the United States District Attorney.

FORM OF GUARANTY.

We, ———, of the county of ——— and State of ———, and ———, of the county of ——— and State of ———, do hereby guarantee that ——— is able to fulfill the contract in accordance with the terms of the proposition, and that should his proposition be accepted he will enter into contract in accordance with the terms of said proposition, and we are prepared to become his sureties.

(Sig.)
(Sig.)

Certificate of the Clerk of ——— District Court, or United States District Attorney.

I believe the signers strictly to the above form of proposal, or their bids will be rejected.

An assortment of blankets to the United States Government must accompany the bid.

Bidders may be present by proxy when the Proposals are opened.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder or bidder who will be duly notified by mail or otherwise, if his bid be accepted, and they will immediately proceed to enter into contract, with bonds to the amount of $5,000. Bonds to be properly certified to.

The Post-office address of the parties proposing must be distinctly written upon the Proposal.

Proposals to be addressed to HENRY JOHNSON, M. D., U. S. A., and Acting Medical Purveyor, Washington, D. C., and marked, "Proposal for Ice."

The Medical Purveyor reserves to himself the right to reject any or all bids deemed unfavorable.

HENRY JOHNSON,
Brevet Lieut.-Col. U. S. A., and Acting Medical Purveyor, N. D.

Printed forms of above Proposals can be had on application to this office.

Information as to the location, capacity and about the amount of ice required by the hospitals will be given by application to the Medical Director of each of these Departments.

OFFICE OF ASSISTANT COMMISSARY-GENERAL OF SUBSISTENCE, No. 4 STATE-ST., NEW-YORK, Jan. 13, 1864.

SEALED PROPOSALS (IN DUPLICATE) will be received by the undersigned, until 4 o'clock P. M. on SATURDAY, the 16th inst., for supplying the United States for filling a special order:

300 barrels of ROASTED AND GROUND RYE, to be packed in good strong barrels made of thoroughly sound, sweet, well-seasoned white oak staves, well-hooped, and free from all other defects, and to be in every respect in the best manner, as well as in the usual and approved form, to be met by the proposals.

A printed copy of the advertisement must be attached to each proposal, and the proposals must be specific in complying precisely with all the terms. Each bid, to have effect, must contain the written guarantee of two responsible names, as follows:

"We, the undersigned, hereby guarantee that should all or any part of the above bid be accepted, it shall be duly fulfilled according to the true purport and conditions of the above, and that a written contract, with bonds to the amount of 50 per cent. of the amount proposed to be furnished, shall be executed if required."

The seller's name, place of business, and the date of purchase, as well as the name of contents, with gross, tare and net weights and shipping marks, to be legibly designated, must be plainly marked on every package. All other old marks must be obliterated. All boxes to be stripped with green hickory straps.

Certificates of professional packers, or inspectors, other than the party furnishing the provisions, will be required for all the meats, certifying on the part of the seller their present quality and condition, and the competency preceding inspection. The meats will also be examined and passed upon by Robert P. Getty, inspector on the part of the United States.

The flour will be inspected at the date of delivery, and compared with the retained samples, by Henry Shields, President of the Association of Flour Inspectors, whose certificate will be required.

All the stores will be carefully inspected before their delivery, and compared with the retained samples. Receipts of weight, signed by a Professional Public Weigher, must be produced with the invoices.

Drayage, at her cost, to be made in such funds as may be furnished by the United States.

Contractors are expected to hold their goods, without expense to the United States, until required for shipment.

Blanks for Proposals will be furnished at this office, which must be inclosed in an envelope addressed to the undersigned, and indorsed "Proposals for Subsistence Stores."

To the Hon. G. Godfrey Gunther, Mayor and President of the Board of Health:

In compliance to your request of this date, I have visited the Barracks in the Park, and present the following report:

The Barracks on the Broadway side are four buildings 1st long by thirty feet wide, under the charge of Capt. Hume, who has three assistants to keep it clean. This is used as a sort of a boarding-house or hotel for the various soldiers in their transit through the City to and from the seat of war. At the present time 500 men are accommodated there independent of the Provost-Guard, who occupy the lower portion of the Barracks, and the number of which I could not ascertain. The building is not constructed with sufficient regard to ventilation in cold weather or means of warming. And as they have but three assistants, it is impossible to keep it clean, with 500 men tramping out and in with snow and mud upon their feet.

It would require at least fifty men to do justice in the place, and in camp, under military discipline, it would take the whole 500, as each man would be compelled to police his own quarters, as should be done; but here they are simply lodgers or guests in a hotel, to be waited on and cared for, instead of caring for themselves; and as the Superintendent has no control over them, and as there is an entire absence of military discipline, some of the companies having no officers at all, as a matter of course the building is much more dirty than it should be, but it keeps as neatly as can be done under the circumstances, with the amount of force employed; and unless the soldiers are compelled to police their quarters, the result is in camp, it will require instead of three assistants at least fifty, and these, by constant labor, would not more than do the work in muddy and wet weather.

Between these barracks and those on Park-row side are arranged the water-closets, which were constructed for summer use only, and of course are entirely vacated for this cold weather, and absolutely require an entire reconstruction, as they are now completely frozen up.

In the Park-this side a small room for the officer in charge and the medical attendant is cut off from the lower corner of the building, embracing one-half the width, and opening into the barracks.

Immediately behind this room a part is partitioned off with the Doctor very properly denominated the "Pen." This pen is 15 feet wide, 20 feet long, 8 feet high to the roof, and 6 feet to the eaves, boarded up on three sides tightly—the fourth, which faces on the barracks, directly opposite an immense stove, which is heated to a red heat, is by slats four inches wide and placed three inches apart.

In this there is not a bench or a stick of wood or anything to sit on, not even a post to lean against, except the four perpendicular sides of the room. There is not even straw to cover the floor, as a bag or bone would have done, but the accumulated filth of many months is the only thing that separates the occupant from the naked floor.

In this "pen" are confined at the present time 61 men, and the officer in charge informed me that he had had at one time as many as 72. Some of the men have been there from three to four months. They are there incarcerated for various military offenses, principally of military discipline, and deserters. All huddled in this common "pen," sick and well together. A guard is placed over them to prevent escape, and the guard is ordered to accompany them to the water-closet in the Park one at a time; the other 60 must wait their proper turn, no matter how pressing the necessity from dysentery, diarrhoea or other cause, and of course the result of such treatment can better be imagined than described.

Tobacco can be fed through the bars, taking the great bad bread in the service, no knives or forks being allowed; onions are allowed once a day when they chose to pay for them. No blankets are allowed them on them they happened to have one themselves when they entered there, and but few of them are thus fortunate, the most of them having to lie upon the naked floor with the exception of the accumulation of filth and mud which covered it.

Tobacco is introduced contrabad by laying them upon their chests in approachment, and by close packing, putting the heads of one row on the bodies of the row in front, the could pack 45 in the pen; the rest are then taken out and chained to trees until these 45 have had some sleep, and then they are transferred.

The only means of cleansing the apartment was by scouring in Croton water, from a hose through the slats, which spread the bones, pork-skins, potato-skins, &c., to the back and corners of the room, and as this nearly level, they remain there, and in some places are near an inch or two in depth.

The men are covered with lice and vermin, and the stench was almost unbearable.

Dr. Blackwell, who was in attendance, and who is a blind-hearted, honest, faithful man, informed me that he had repeatedly reported the nuisance as grossly as possible to his superior officers, Gen. Canby and Gen. Dix, and demanded redress, but up to the present time without any avail.

Gen. Dix himself, personally visited that place a few days since, and can, therefore, certify to the accuracy of my description.

This pen-hole is an outrage on humanity—a burning disgrace to any nation, and ought not for one moment to be tolerated.

If the General Government choose thus to outrage humanity, and treat their soldiers worse than wild beasts, for God's sake let them take them away from the City, and put them on Government property, and then let them assume the responsibility for the outrage,—but do not permit the City any longer to be disgraced by allowing them to occupy its grounds, and on them practice such horrid barbarities.

Very respectfully, &c.,

LEWIS A. SAYRE, M.D.,
Resident Physician.

Mayor's Office, New-York, Jan. 14, 1864.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

Gentlemen: I herewith transmit to your Honorable Body a copy of the report of Lewis A. Sayre, M. D., relative to the condition of the barracks in the Park, and the danger thence to be apprehended of the breakingout of contagion and disease. I visited the place yesterday, at the request of Dr. Sayre, and can personally bear testimony to the accuracy of the statements contained in the report. I would respectfully recommend that the Common Council take immediate steps to prevent the engendering of pestilence at this spot.

G. GODFREY GUNTHER.

The Case of Palmer.

IMPRACTICABILITY OF HIS TRIAL BEFORE A MILITARY COMMISSION.

No investigation in the case of Palmer, Colonel Baker's Private Secretary, has yet been had. The rumors that his examination was progressing at Fort Lafayette, at Marshal Murray's office, or at the headquarters of Gen. Dix, are without foundation. Marshal Murray has received a letter from the Secretary of War, stating that all such cases would be brought before a Military Commission, and it seems to be the received impression that Palmer will be tried in this way. A Military Commission can be organized by the commander of a department for the trial of such civilians as may be charged with crimes of which a Court-martial would take cognizance if the accused were in the military or naval service of the United States. The rules by which it is governed are similar to those governing Court-martial, the Judge-Advocate and the members of the Court being sworn to secrecy. Parties could not be brought before such a tribunal on allegations of defrauding the Revenue, nor on the charge of holding communication with the enemies of the United States, or of aiding or abetting them or affording them comfort or support, or furnishing them with information, he could be tried by a Military Commission, and punished if the offence warranted death.

The Light Guard's Ball.

This long-expected ball took place last evening at the Academy of Music, and of the many brilliant affairs the Guards have given, was, beyond dispute, the most brilliant. The Academy was charmingly and elegantly ornamented for the occasion, with gropings of the Stars and Stripes; the stage handsomely incased, mirrors, with the exception, an apple bell recent. The company was large and select, the beauty in excess of the any similar occasion, and the dressing rich and elegant. In all that tended to comfort and enjoyment, it was far in advance of the famous Russian Ball. That was a huge crowd, an indescribable confusion; this was crowd enough, truly, yet not to the excess which prevented locomotion of some dancing a farce. Dodworth's Military and Cotillion Band discoursed the music, and most admirably, while hundreds of canaries throughout the building—a beautiful idea it was—seemed to emulate the general excitement and enjoyment, and warbled their utmost, as though in rivalry of the most artistic grades.

Among the guests present were Major-Gen. Dix, Major-Gen. Wool, Gen. Miller, Major Jocelyn, U. S. A., Col. Martin, Col. Graham, and all our prominent City officials.

The members of the Light Guard seemed to ignore themselves, and vie with each other in contributing to the pleasure of their guests. Much honor is their due, beyond the mere fact of the occasion of their annual festivity, on this they loaded themselves with a [illegible] following gentlemen constituted the Committee:

Reception Committee—Capt. Wm. G. Tompkins, Lieut. Daniel H. Burdett, Lieut. O. F. Smith, privates Henry Morton, Wm. Demarest; Supper Committee, Sergeant Geo. H. Byron, Privates Henry R. Mallory, Wm. T. Jennings, Jas. E. Comstock, David M. Hartshorne, F. M. [illegible]

Rear Adm. A. P. Woodman, U. S. Navy, N. P. Bat, R. E. Jones, J. L. Lang.

Floor Committee—Lieut. Daniel H. Burdett, Chief Marshal.

Assistant Floor Managers—Sergeants Samuel W. Osgood, Samuel Martin, Privates J. A. Hunting.

Supper was provided by Mr. Hassler, the on a liberal and, to judge from the "demolition" of it, a most satisfactory scale.

Thomas Moss, Esq., late of Wallack's, and whose name the best guarantee of an honest territory is complete—had entire charge of the house, and by his admirable arrangements contributed largely to the entire success of the evening.

The dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning, closing with the "Sing out" peculiar with the Tigers, and which was curiously watched by the women of ladies who had waited to see it, but who unfortunately the privilege of participation. This is the only unmilitary the Guards are ever guilty of, but they justly claim it as an hereditary right, and have justice in the claim as all will say. It sent every one home full of glee, and will, when recalled, make pleasant. The memory of one of the most creditable and enjoyable balls that chroniclers have ever chronicled.

Banquet to the Re-Enlisted Veterans and Disabled Soldiers of the Irish Brigade.

As a recognition of the patriotic devotion of the re-enlisted veterans and disabled soldiers of the Irish Brigade, the officers of that gallant command now in this City have resolved to give a banquet to their war-worn companions in arms, on Saturday next, Jan. 16, at Irving Hall, commencing at 1 o'clock P. M. This banquet, which will be given at the expense of the officers of the brigade, without any outside assistance whatsoever, will be on a grand scale. Every necessary provision is being made to render it a success, under the personal supervision of Gen. Meagher, Capts. McGee and Mooney of the Sixty-ninth, Nagle of the Eighty-eighth, and Clingman of the Sixty-third, who, with Surgeon O'Meagher of the Sixty-ninth and Lieut. O'Hanlon of the Sixty-third, and Jas. D. C., who constitute the Committee of Arrangements. A number of eminent citizens have been invited to attend. Gen. Meagher and his officers are determined to show to their Irish countrymen that their resolute fidelity to the Republic in its darkest hours is thoroughly appreciated. We anticipate a most genial and characteristic exhibition of Irish-American hospitality on this occasion.

Should Saturday be fine, the veterans of the brigade will assemble in the Park, immediately opposite the City Hall, at 11½ o'clock A. M., precisely, where they will await the hand and Committee of Officers appointed to escort them to the Hall. Should the day be wet, the veterans are requested to come directly to Irving Hall from their residences, and be there at 12½ o'clock, precisely.

The Late Archbishop Hughes—Grand Mass Requiem at St. Francis Xavier's.

Yesterday morning, at 10 o'clock, a Grand Mass Requiem was held at St. Francis Xavier's Church, in Sixteenth-street, for the repose of the soul of the late Archbishop Hughes. Long before the hour appointed the church was densely crowded, mostly by ladies. The altar was draped with black cloth, embellished with the emblems of death. In the centre aisle, upon a raised platform, was a coffin covered with a black velvet pall, in centre of which was a large white cross. At the head and foot of the coffin were placed three wax tapers. The Celebrant was the Rev. Joseph Loyzance; Deacon, Rev. L. Scumacher; Sub-Deacon, Rev. P. O'Hanlly. The following were the officers present in the sanctuary: Very Rev. W. Starrs, administrator of the diocese, Rev. F. McMahon, Very Rev. F. Sopranis, Rev. Michael Driscoll, Rev. Henry Hudson, Rev. H. DeLuynes, Rev. T. Mignard, Rev. P. Daubresse, Rev. John Cunningham, Rev. John McElroy, Rev. Thomas Flack, Rev. F. Cheramy, and Rev. F. Duvauquet. Father Moran had charge of the arrangements.

At the conclusion of the requiem, Father Sourin performed the Libera.

The choir, thirty-two in number, under the able direction of Professor William Brady, gave the whole of Mozart's Grand Requiem. The most noticeable pieces in the requiem were the quartette Tuba Mirum, sung by Misses Coonan and Johnson, and Messrs. Wannemacher and De Olas, the full chorus Hostias Sanctus, and the quartette Benedictus.

The Fifty-ninth and Fortieth Regiments Paid the State and the City Bounties.

Yesterday the Fifty-ninth Regiment New-York State Volunteers, Lieut.-Col. Ruse commanding, were paid the State bounty, $75, at the Park Barracks. To-day the City bounty will be given them. A portion of the Fortieth Regiment (Mozart) Col. Egan commanding, were paid City bounty, $300. The remainder will be paid it to-day.

In Memoriam.

Adelphic Lodge, No. 348, held last evening at Dodworth's Hall, No. 806 Broadway, a lodge of sorrow to the memory of their late Past Master J. B. Yates Sommers, also late Deputy Grand Master of the State of New-York.

The room was appropriately dressed. In the centre, on a raised platform of three steps, emblematic of youth, manhood and old age, stood the catafalque on which was placed the regalia and jewel of office of the deceased, the lambskin apron, white gloves and a most beautiful white wreath with black background, on which was inscribed the name of "J. B. Yates Sommers," the white wreath being the masonic emblem of death and purity. At each corner was placed the funeral urn and tapes, at the foot of the platform stood the altar, properly draped, supporting the Holy Bible, and surrounded by the three lesser lights.

After the opening of the Lodge, prayer by Rev. Bro. Fern, C. Ewan and the singing of a hymn by Bros. Miller and Gardner, the solemn, and impressive ceremonies of the Masonic Ritual were performed conducted by W. Anon Smith, Jr., Master; W. E. M. Barns as Senior Warden, W. W. T. Marvin as Junior Warden, J. W. Bennett as Senior Deacon, G. W. Barns as Junior Deacon, and Rev. Bro. F. C. Ewan as Chaplain. From the extinguishing of the tapers, emblematic of death, throughout the entire ceremony to the refloating of them, emblematic of the resurrection, the service was most solemn.

After the ceremonies, R. W. John H. Anthon, D. G. M., of the First Masonic District, delivered a truthful and feeling eulogy. He said no eulogy was needed. The life of the late Deputy Grand Master, a life of love, was a eulogy in itself more beautiful than man could utter. He continued for some twenty minutes in a strain of eloquence that brought tears to the eyes of many.

Among the distinguished Brethren present were: R. W. J. J. Crane, Past Grand Master; R. W. Jas. Austin, Grand Secretary; R. W. Brother Herring, Past Grand Secretary; W. Brother Thos. S. Sommers, Master of Kane Lodge and brother of deceased; W. Brothers Platt, Cornell and many others.

Chess by Telegraph.

The Telegraphic Chess match between the New-York Paulson Chess Club and that of Philadelphia, the proceedings in which we have already taken occasion to refer to, was brought to a conclusion last evening. Upon the whole, the game in question may be considered as a fine specimen of chess strategy; and, so far as the Philadelphia players are concerned, we think that it would be difficult to select from the records of match games a better illustration of patient defences and persevering, unwavering attack, than that which is exhibited by them on the present occasion, and which will be apparent on a critical examination of the score, which we give below:

New-York resigns.

The Police Salaries.

It looks well in Albany for the desired increase of the salaries of the Police. The bill has thus early been introduced in the Assembly, and acted on favorably by the Committee. It is so manifestly just, it does with such a general approval from citizens, and so commendable itself to the Legislature, that there would seem no doubt of its passage in either House. The bill is entirely unprovided with any of the obnoxious taxes raised in regarding the Police—taxes solely to the matter of pay, was changed by extraordinary Matters. Its passage will enable every State man to meet the increased cost of living, pay them for thirty-seven hours' duty out of the forty-eight, and increase their efficiency.

Laughing Gas Handless.—

TO THE PUBLIC.

The Times, of Wednesday morning, contains the report of the death of Mr. Samuel Shaw, after inhaling the Laughing Gas for the extraction of a tooth, at the office of Dr. Burnham, No. 378 Canal-street. It might be inferred by those not conversant with the subject, that the inhalation of this gas was dangerous. Your report of the above case, says: "Dr. Geo. B. Bouton made a post-mortem examination on the body, and he found that the deceased was very consumptive—that one of his lungs was nearly gone, and the other considerably affected by disease. Dr. Bouton, in his testimony before the jury, gave it as his opinion, that if deceased had been in ordinary health, he would not have been injuriously affected by the inhalation of the gas."

It is evident from the details of the report, that Mr. Shaw could not have died from the effects of the gas, for it is well known that these effects all pass off within two or three minutes of inhalation; while Mr. Shaw, it is stated, "had recovered from the effects of the gas," and walked about, and did not expire till two hours afterward. It is well known that persons suffering from consumption, where the vital forces are nearly exhausted, frequently die suddenly, and from no apparent or ascertainable cause. This might have been the case with Mr. Shaw. This is the first time I ever heard it intimated that there was any danger, even for consumptives, to inhale the "laughing gas." The only question has been its efficiency as an adequate substitute for other or chloroform. No one questions this who has witnessed its operation.

I have made and administered this gas during the past twenty years to at least twenty thousand persons, and since May last for the extraction of over 3,000 teeth, and have never had the slightest ill effects attend it. I have taken great pains to make the gas pure. I cannot answer for the results of an impure article.

But is it safe for consumptive persons, (like Mr. Shaw,) and those suffering from extreme feebleness and nervous debility, to inhale the gas? I answer that the gas has been given for the relief of these very complaints, and with the most happy results. A few weeks since a gentleman came to our office, who was far gone with consumption. His friends said they should not be surprised if he died any day. They wished to know if it would be safe for him to breathe the gas, and have a tooth extracted. I answered that it would, and that he would feel stronger after breathing it. I gave him the gas, and his tooth was extracted. He said he felt better than before inhaling it. Three days after this his sister called at our office, and wished to know if he could not come and inhale the gas for his health; and stated that on returning home after his tooth was extracted—to the surprise of the whole family—he felt so strong that he did not with to lay down, and even the next morning his strength continued. My answer was that the gas would do him no permanent good; that it could not restore the lungs, and therefore the relief would be only temporary. He was wasting away for the want of capacity in his lungs to oxygenize his blood; that the gas, containing a much larger proportion of oxygen than the common air, the deficiency in the lungs would be temporarily relieved by the extra quantity of oxygen.

On the 8th of December last, I had an application to administer the gas to a lady who had been confined to her room by sickness for the past two years. She had hardly been off from her bed during this time. Her father said she had been so low at times that, on two occasions, her physician had pronounced that she was approaching her end. Her nervous condition was such that during these two years she had to be kept in total darkness! She could not bear the light. The dentist said he thought it very unsafe to administer the gas—that she would die on our hands. I answered, "The gas gives life, not death. If she has two hours to live she will certainly live four after inhaling the gas." Her parents lifted her from the bed to an easy-chair. I administered a dose of the gas, inducing sound sleep, during which the dentist extracted four teeth. He extracted four more after the next dose, and two more, (ten in all,) after the third dose. When we came away, the lady said she could not remember the time when she had felt so well as she did then. On the 16th of December, (eight days after,) her father called and said his daughter had gained in health every day since she inhaled the gas, and wished us to come and administer it again and extract more teeth. We went and gave the gas three times more and removed the balance of the stumps. Not only no ill effects, but, apparently, the best medical effects attended its inhalation. Her disease seemed to be mostly of a nervous character, originating, as they thought, in her aberrated teeth.

I think the above facts afford sufficient evidence that it is safe for persons suffering from any sort of disease, to inhale a pure article of nitrous oxide gas.

FROM F. L. CAGWIN, ESQ.,
PRESIDENT CITY BANK, JOLIET, ILL.

Dr. Lighthill:

Dear Sir: It affords me the greatest satisfaction to be able to inform you that I am still improving, and have the highest hopes that my ear will be entirely well by the time you at first mentioned it would take to effect a cure. I can say that I am truly thankful to the kind Providence which directed me to you. Since the first few days use of your prescription, my ear has improved, and almost at once. I was relieved from a very depressed state of feeling and an almost intolerable case, to an elastic and hopeful state of mind. What Dr. John Nott replied to mine his experience, has been mine so far. My catarrhal trouble seems very much better also, and, indeed, altogether, my health never was so good. I am weighing some five pounds more than is usual for me, (and more than I ever weighed before.)

I can but hope that it may be the good fortune of many with like troubles, to fall in the way of the benefit of your skill, and knowing how great the fear of imposition is with them, who in time past may like myself have suffered by it, and feeling a wish, sincerely at this time, to aid and commend you to establishing a high and deserved position amongst us in your profession, I beg, therefore, that you will not hesitate to refer to me, as it may be of use. I also inclose herewith Professor Nott's reply to my letter of inquiries, which I deem highly creditable to you, and of great importance to others, as it has been to me. I will visit you again soon. In the meantime, believe me, Yours, very sincerely,

Joliet, Ill., July 17, 1863. F. L. CAGWIN.

FROM REV. JOHN NOTT, D. D.,
PROFESSOR IN UNION COLLEGE, SCHENECTADY,
NEW-YORK.

Utica, N. Y., April 20, 1863.

F. L. Cagwin, Esq.:

Dear Sir: I received your letter of April 23 to-day. I have had from infancy one very deaf ear, and always discharging more or less offensive matter. This year both ears became distressed, running very much, very offensive, producing the greatest debility of body and depression of spirits, and my hearing impaired in the highest degree. In such a condition, I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill. He has fully restored me. I hear well; the distress and the discharge have been removed, and have not returned. The stopping of the running has given me the highest elasticity and vigor of body, and a flow of spirits, while my fears were that stopping the discharge would prove detrimental or dangerous.

I seldom, or rather have learned to esteem, Dr. Lighthill—for he was a stranger to me until I was his patient—as a gentleman and a man of science, in whom the highest confidence may be placed. Yours, very truly,

JOHN NOTT.

A boy of mine, four years old, who has been quite hard of hearing for over a year, had been completely restored by Dr. Lighthill, after a short course of treatment.

A. C. NEWLETT, No. 16 6th-av.

New-York, Sept. 1, 1863.

This is to certify that I have been troubled for some time with partial deafness, and a very unpleasant ringing sound in the head, which rendered conversation difficult, except in a loud tone of voice. I take great pleasure in stating that under the skillful and painless treatment of Dr. Lighthill, my hearing has been restored, and the ringing sound in the head has ceased.

H. P. WYANT, with J. W. Meserole,
No. 2 Warren-st.

New-York, Sept. 4, 1863.

I do hereby certify that for the past fifteen months my hearing has been affected to a considerable extent, and that by an operation of Dr. Lighthill I have been restored to my full hearing. As I reside in Detroit and intend leaving for home soon, these desirous of knowing the veracity of this may inquire of Mr. T. J. McArthur, No. 485 Broadway. P. McTERNEY.

New-York, June 17, 1863.

Dr. Lighthill has succeeded in restoring to perfect hearing my right ear, which has been deaf for some time, caused by a cold. As I am obliged to leave for New-Orleans in a few days, those who may wish to make further inquiries may call on my brother, Mr. H. C. Potter, No. 78 Reade-st., firm of Streeter, Faxon & Potter, who will be happy to give any information desired.

New-York, April 10, 1863.

A little daughter of mine has been afflicted with a troublesome discharge from both ears, the result of scarlet fever. Dr. Lighthill, under whose care I placed her, has removed the discharge completely, and improved her hearing. W. H. RAYNOR, No. 5 Pine-st.

No. 12 Cortlandt-st., New-York, Jan. 2, 1863.

Dr. E. B. Lighthill—Dear Sir: It was with the kindest feelings toward you, and hoping to do service to some one who is afflicted, that I forward the inclosed document to you:

To whom it may concern: I am personally acquainted with the success which attended Dr. Lighthill's treatment in a case of discharge from the ear and chronic inflammation of the throat, and would be pleased to give further information on application. W. D. W. WEBB.

I have been suffering for some time with noise in my head and deafness. Having applied to Dr. Lighthill, I have great pleasure in saying that he has completely relieved me, so that now I can hear as well as ever, and am not troubled with the noise in my head.

I may also mention that a young man named Henry Laws, staying with me, was also afflicted in a similar manner, and Dr. Lighthill was equally successful in his case. JOHN MURDOCK, No. 137 Fulton-st.

Brooklyn, Jan. 3, 1863.

No. 146 Water-st., New-York, June 5, 1863.

Dr. Lighthill has succeeded in completely restoring my hearing, which was seriously impaired, although previous to applying to him I was treated by several physicians without the least benefit. Any further information I should be pleased to render on application to me at my residence, No. 175 2d-st., Brooklyn, E. D., or at my place of business, No. 146 Water-st.

WM. H. WATERBURY.

No. 42 Fifth-st., New-York, June 16, 1863.

Dr. Lighthill—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in testifying to the remarkable skill and judgment you displayed in the case of my daughter, who had been partially deaf, accompanied by discharge from the ear, since early infancy, and is now, thanks to your treatment, able to hear as well as any one, while her ears are free from the discharge. Although it is nearly two years since she has been under your care, her hearing remains as good, and her ears as sound, as the day she left you.

D. S. HOLLY.

No. 12 Grand-st., Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1862.

I placed my wife under the care of Dr. Lighthill for deafness in one ear, of nearly three years' standing, accompanied by constant noises. I am happy to state that her hearing is now entirely restored, and she entirely relieved. Many persons in New-York, who are deaf, of course, inquire how I came to be healthy. In fact, Capt. William Edwards, or No. 40 Bond-st., who is deaf, is acquainted with the circumstances of his case.

From Rev. Levi G. Beck, Pastor of the Baptist Church, Pottstown, N. J., formerly of the North Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

I have known Hoofland's German Bitters favorably for a number of years. I have used them in my own family and have been so pleased with their effects that I was for about a year, to recommend them in many cases, and know that they have operated in a startling beneficial manner. I take great pleasure in thus publicly proclaiming the fact, and calling the attention of those afflicted with the diseases for which they are recommended, to them, feeling knowing (as experience does say to me) that they will be gladdened. I do this more cheerfully, as Hoofland's Bitters is intended to benefit the afflicted, and is "not a rum drink." Yours truly,

LEVI G. BECK.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although I do not generally like to see the celebrated Patent Medicines in general, through disregard of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no authentic reasons why a man may not identify to the benefit he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, for the sake that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this City, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture, and
